Keeping Traditions

Holmes Community College has maintained many traditions over its 70 year history, not the least of which is its tradition of excellence. It is a tradition of excellence that spans the administration, the faculty, staff and students.

The college also maintains a tradition of service and has proven through the years that it is an institution dedicated to serving the citizens that reside in its nine-county support district, including Carroll, Attala, Madison, Choctaw, Montgomery, Grenada, Webster and Yazoo counties, through a comprehensive program of instruction, student services and activities, adult and continuing education, community services and economic development and industrial services.

The traditions extend beyond the classroom into the groups and activities that make up the extracurricular offerings at the school. From the band to Phi Theta Kappa to VICA, each of the groups at Holmes provide the students with activities that add enjoyment to college life and develop leadership and creativity skills and personal growth.

Embracing Change

While tradition is certainly an important part of Holmes Community College, the institution has become accustomed to change. Striving from semester to semester, year to year, and decade to decade to better meet the needs of its students and its community, the college has evolved from an agricultural high school to a comprehensive educational facility serving the citizens of nine counties in central Mississippi.

Begun in 1911 as Holmes County Agricultural High School, the school added the first year of college work in the 1925-26 school year. The college became eligible to award the Associate of Arts degree after adding a second year of college work in the 28-29 school year.

The support of the college has expanded from the original county of Holmes to include Carroll, Attala, Madison, Choctaw, Montgomery, Grenada, Webster and Yazoo counties that now make up its district.

Observing Traditions

From homecoming, with the election of the queen and her court, to graduation, with the gowns, speeches, pomp and circumstance that have become hallmarks of that ceremony in institutions throughout the world, Holmes observes traditions that bring together its past and its present.

The college's alumni return for homecoming celebrations, partly observing traditions they shared as students at Holmes and enjoying traditions, such as the Sports Hall of Fame inductions, that mark the alumni's celebrations.

Holmes' alumni are themselves one of the college's greatest tradition. The alumni are consistently supportive of the institution, always ready to give of themselves, their time, their expertise and their resources. The alumni have been essential to many recent projects, including the creation of Holmes House and the Development Foundation's drive.

Watching Change

Eighty-two acres in Goodman provided the foundation for Holmes Community College, which now includes locations in both Ridgeland and Grenada.

As a result of extensive study and strategic planning conducted in 1981 and 1982 involving all segments of the junior college community, the decision was made to build new centers in the northern and southern ends of the geographically large district.

The primary purpose for the centers was to make the educational programs and services of the college available to a greater percentage of the district population. Both the Grenada and Ridgeland facilities were opened in 1985.

In November 1988 the Board of Trustees took action to change the name of the institution from Holmes Junior College to Holmes Community College. The name change was made to reflect the comprehensive and multi-faceted mission of the two-year college. The change was subsequently approved by the state Board for Community and Junior Colleges the following month. It became effective July 1, 1989.

Building on Tradition

Holmes Community College continues to build on its tradition of excellence while continuing to change so that it can better meet the needs of its students in the future.

Holmes also continues to find ways to better serve its community and the nine counties that make up its district.

Holmes has dedicated itself to keeping its students on the forefront of technology, as evidenced by the addition of a technology center adjacent to the Science and Math Building.

Pour it on!

Although the Miss Holmes Community College Pageant is a relative newcomer to the roster of activities available to Holmes students, it held fast to its tradition of beauty and pizzazz for the 1995 pageant.

Under the theme "Pour it On!," the contestants, Miss Holmes 1995 Cortney Thomas, Melissa Norwood and Marcell Berry provided the entertainment throughout the evening.

The competition consists of interview, swimsuit, evening gown and talent segments. The contestants proved that Holmes harbors a student body with a vast array of talents. The talent competition included a twirling routine, a dramatic reading and vocal performances ranging from country and fifties pop to Broadway and opera.

Melyn Prewett of Kosciusko was named Miss Holmes Community College 1995. Pacey Wigginton took the first alternate's spot while Natalie Sykes was named second alternate. Both are residents of Pickens.

Prewett represented Holmes at the Miss Mississippi Pageant held in July in Vicksburg, where she won a non-finalist talent award.

Dedication

As an English instructor on the Goodman Campus of Holmes Community College for 28 years, Linda Bunch has touched the lives and corrected the grammar of thousands of students.

She has proven semester after semester and year after year that her dedication to the students of Holmes and her subject matter are beyond compare. Without question, the guidance and instruction Bunch has given the students in her courses has helped them both in other college courses and in their work after college.

The Goodman resident holds both a bachelor's degree and master's degree from Mississippi College. She has completed additional study at Delta State University, Mississippi State University and the University of Mississippi.

She and her husband, William H. Bunch Jr., who works with the State Board for Community and Junior Colleges, have two children, both of whom attended Holmes.

Their daughter, Lindy Bunch McCain, is a teacher at Central Holmes Academy in Lexington. Their son, Will Bunch, works with industrial services at Holmes as a basic skills specialist.

It is with sincere appreciation for her many years of dedication and service to Holmes Community College that this yearbook, the 67th edition of Horizons, is dedicated to Linda Bunch.

Morgan guides Holmes through changes while maintaining college's tradition of excellence

While quality instructors have been a long-standing tradition of Holmes Community College, the facilities in which they teach continually improve. With the addition of the technology center to the Goodman Campus, which will be located adjacent to the Science and Mathematics Building, instructors will have the latest technology, including both hardware and software, at their fingertips. The 9,500 square foot structure will contain technology labs and a resource center for students to use as well as faculty office space and work rooms.

The early phase of construction has begun on the Ridgeland Campus Science Building. The facility will include a multipurpose lecture hall, laboratories and classrooms for biology, physics and chemistry classes as well as office space for the instructors.

While it may not contain state-of-the-art technology, another structure planned for the Goodman Campus is certain to become an integral part of the campus. The proposed Holmes Community College Chapel, for which fund raising has begun, will meet the spiritual, emotional and inspirational needs of Holmes students and the community at large.

In the planning of all of these facilities, the benefit to students is kept foremost. To maintain the tradition of the high quality of students that Holmes enjoys, the institution must adapt and grow to meet their ever-changing needs. One of the ways in which the college has done this is the development of the Career Center. Located in McDaniel Hall on the Goodman Campus, the center offers students college transfer information, career videos, and brochures on issues such as dealing with stress and time management. There are also several computers available for students to use.

Student life beyond the classroom is not forgotten as the college strives to offer a multi-faceted education. The umbrella of athletics has recently expanded to include track and field and cross country. The fine arts department has recently added a steel drum band to its list of offerings. With a tradition of diversity, extracurricular activities offered to students are both entertaining and challenging.

It is clear that, as president, Dr.

THAT WAS THEN THIS IS NOW

*Adding course offerings is just one of the ways
Holmes adapts to changing needs*

The course offerings on the three campuses of Holmes Community College are anything but static. While staples such as English composition and college algebra are certainly courses that stand the test of time, many courses are added as the need arises.

On the Ridgeland Campus, a plastics technology program has brought yet another facet to technical offerings which keep Holmes on the cutting edge. Within the first semester of the program, the plastics technology students and their instructor, Tracy Warren, teamed up with the machine shop students, with their instructor Dewey Ables, to produce a finished plastic-injected product from scratch to finish.

The machine shop students produced the "tool," the machine-graded steel mold into which the plastic is injected. The plastics technology students then used the tool to manufacture the coasters. With more than 140 manufacturers using either plastic injection, extrusion or both processes in the production of plastic products, there is a lot of interest in the program.

Just as the course offerings for Holmes students continue to expand and adapt to the changing interests of the students and requirements of the job markets they face, Holmes expands and adapts its services to meet the needs of the community.

A recently-opened Skill/Tech Center serves the needs of the industries and workers in the nine counties in Holmes' district through training and skill enhancement. Based on a company's needs, the Skill/Tech coordinators can offer their employees classes ranging from adult basic education to using a specific tool or machine. Lynn Wright, formerly a marketing and management technology instructor as well as the co-op coordinator for Holmes, serves as the director of the Skill/Tech program. The program is state-funded and administered through the Mississippi Community College Board.

CAREER CENTER FINDING DIRECTION

New Career Center helps students with everything from transfer information to resumes

BY ELIZABETH ANN WATSON

In its first year, for the Career Center has been very useful for the students. Students use the Career Center for career explorations, and help figuring out what career for which they are best suited. Students also use the center to write resumes, to take test surveys that will help them find the occupation that best fits their abilities, and they also use the career center to watch videos and to look up information on four-year schools. The Mississippi State Employment Services send microfiche to the career center so that students may use the microfiche machine to look up jobs that they may be interested in applying for.

The Career Center is funded by the state. The Career Center helps give students opportunities that they might not have had.

Students can use the Career Center at any time. Patti Koonz, secretary for student support services, said, "Students can walk in anytime during the day from 8:00-3:30; the Career Center averages around eight to 15 students a day."

Patti Koonz is not only the secretary for Janice Richardson, director of the Career Center, but she also handles the student tutoring services that Holmes Community College offers the students. She helps people find tutors to help them in the subjects that they are having the most difficult problems. I think the one on one helps students out more for many reasons: they are getting the attention they need, they are able to ask questions that they might be scared to ask in class, and it is easier to interact with tutors our own age.

The tutors are paid for the services they provide for the students. The services are paid for by a federal grant. To receive tutoring, individuals have to qualify for student services.

Patti Koonz said, "If you don't qualify you can come with a friend who does qualify and get tutored at the same time that they do."

There are 12 active tutors. Tutor Misty Golden, a sophomore from Benton, commented, "When I see improvements in the students I tutor, it makes me feel like I've accomplished something."

"It makes me feel good to be able to help people in the subjects that they are struggling in," said Susanne Sykes, a sophomore tutor from Lexington.

The Career Center is an asset to the campus, helping decide what career to pursue.

The Career Center seems to have made a great improvement on our campus. It seems to be what the students needed to help them achieve their goals, and to help them decide what do you want to be when you grow up. Also, if you are just lacking the ability in a certain subject. I would advise you to go check out the Career Center. They will help you in any way that they can.

*"I know in the future, we are going to see more and more technology in the classrooms and this will provide, once again, an environment where this can take place."

BUILDING FOR TECHNOLOGY TODAY

New building will help keep Holmes students on the cutting edge of technological advances

BY KATIE McNEAL

There are many changes being made in today's society. You might even say that these changes make society what it is today. Things are no different here at Holmes Community College. With the addition of the new technology building that will be located next to the mathematics and science building well under construction, many doors will be opened not only for students, but for faculty members as well.

The new addition will house three technology labs. Each lab will be independently networked with some kind of mother computer that will be linked to the other labs. So the computers will all be linked with possibilities of linking with other computers on the Goodman Campus and in the future, maybe even on the Ridgeland Campus and at the Grenada Center.

"The new technology labs will benefit the college as a whole, but it will benefit the mathematics and science department from the standpoint of technology. It will free up some space needed for classrooms in the existing mathematics and science building and offer new classrooms and offices for instructors," said Boggan.

The new facility will also be opened later in the evenings, according to Boggan, and this will be good because students will have access to the computers at more times. Boggan said, "The technology will be more accessible to them in a formal classroom setting as well as for independent study." Ray Rutledge, a chemistry instructor, said, "It will make the computers more accessible for tutorials in principle, general, and organic chemistry and allow for simulations of difficult experiments where equipment and time would normally prohibit such experiments from being conducted in the lab."

"Having computers that can handle the upgraded software of today's society will help as a whole," said Physics instructor, Beta Keramati. "With new computers, we can provide better software for the students, also with the computers being networked together will make them easier to use."

Having the computers accessible and used in many different classes will make the students more at ease using the technology outside of computer science class. Boggan said, "It will provide different techniques of teaching and will introduce the students to the technology itself, and this should make them more comfortable or friendly with technology."

The mathematics and science department is also working on expanding the use of the observatory. Michael Burchfield, one of the department's science instructors, has been cleaning up and getting a 17.5 inch Newtonian, reflector telescope ready to be housed in the "Igloo," the small white observatory. The telescope is mounted on an equatorial mount.

Burchfield said, "It is a relatively short focal length telescope which makes it ideally suited for photography. Essentially the most important characteristic of a telescope is the light-gathering capacity. This light-gathering capacity is determined by the area of the objective, which in the Newtonian, is the primary mirror."

It will be used for visual observations and charged-coupled-device or electronic imaging, but heavily for photography. It will also be used in the astronomy classes and physical science survey. The telescope was placed here on permanent loan by Marlon Davis, who is an amateur astronomer and astrophotographer from Yazoo County.

There is also a new astronomy class called astronomy II—introduction to aerospace technology (PHY1123). According to Keramati, the new astronomy class will provide non-science majors with yet another "science" elective to choose from to get their required science credits.

With all the new changes in the mathematics and science department, the possibilities for future growth at Holmes Community College are endless.

Above. Technology is not limited to the classroom at Holmes, as evidenced by the new security system at the library.

LAMPLIGHTER CONFERENCE FINDING SOLUTIONS

Lamplighter Conference gives instructors opportunity to share teaching techniques

BY LAURA HELLER

Six Holmes Community College instructors participated in the Lamplighter Project held at Copiah Lincoln Community College in September. The Lamplighter Project is held annually and is sponsored by the Mississippi Community College Academic Dean's Association. This association chose these teachers in order to recognize and reward them for their effective teaching in community colleges. The Lamplighter Project gives instructors an opportunity to share with one another their teaching techniques that promote learning.

Robert Harris

A teacher of computer science on the Goodman Campus, Robert Harris enjoyed the Lamplighter Project immensely.

"The conference leaves the participants with a feeling of unity. When you meet with other community college instructors, you find the common problems you have and you find solutions to those common problems. Lamplighter is promoted to bringing together teachers striving for excellence in teaching," said Harris.

Robert Harris was selected upon his exceptional teaching at Holmes for the past 10 years. He graduated from Mississippi State University with a bachelor's degree in computer science and a master's degree in teaching community college education with an emphasis in computer science.

Ray Rutledge

Goodman Campus instructor Ray Rutledge said the conference left a "very positive impression. It was encouraging and felt good to be recognized. To be among others that were receiving similar recognition made us feel good and special as teachers in our area. It had some excellent motivational speakers."

Ray Rutledge was chosen for his excellent teaching of principles of chemistry, general chemistry, and organic chemistry. He received his bachelor's degree and master's degree in education and specialized education from Mississippi State University. He also had additional study at Auburn University. He taught for one year in Leake County, two years at East Tallahatchie High School, and 18 years at Kosciusko High School. Rutledge has been teaching at Holmes in Goodman for the past nine years.

Ramona Smith

Ramona Smith teaches psychology, child psychology, and human growth and development on the Ridgeland Campus.

"I thought it was very positive in how it made teachers feel as teachers. It made me feel excited about teaching again," said Smith.

She holds a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in psychology from Mississippi State University. She had additional study at Mississippi College and received her post graduate degree in administration and psychology. Following graduate school, she was the principal at Southwest Academy in Jackson. Ramona Smith has taught at Holmes for a total of four years, two of which were at the Goodman Campus; the other two have been at the Ridgeland Campus.

Wayne Watkins

Wayne Watkins feels that the Lamplighter Project showed him that "inspired teachers will inspire students." He is currently instructing classes in drafting and design technology and computer-aided drafting on the Ridgeland Campus. Before teaching at Holmes, he taught at Rosedale High School. This is his 10th year of teaching at Holmes Community College.

He has attended several colleges for his own education, but holds an associate of applied science degree from Holmes, a bachelor's degree and master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi. He also holds a specialized education degree from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Merilyn Long

Holding a bachelor's degree and master's degree in nursing from the University of Alabama, Merilyn Long teaches at the Grenada Center.

"I thought we had a good opportunity to network with each other. The food was great, too," laughed Merilyn Long.

She has taught at the University of Southern Alabama and at Maston School in Mobile before coming here to Holmes. As an instructor for Holmes Community College, she has taught for a total of eight years.

Teresa Graham

As an instructor for five years at the Grenada Center, Teresa Graham teaches associate degree nursing, fundamentals, and community and family health classes.

"It was a lot of fun. It was really nice to be honored and very motivating. It felt nice to be recognized," stated Teresa Graham about the Lamplighter Project.

She received her two bachelor's degrees from Delta State University and her master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi. She taught for nine years at Delta State University before coming to Holmes

RECOGNIZING EXCELLENCE HEADWAE

A Goodman Campus instructor, Ridgeland Campus student receive HEADWAE honors

Higher Education Appreciation Day Working for Academic Excellence, also known as H.E.A.D.W.A.E., was begun in 1988 by state representative Cecil Simmons. He organized this day to recognize outstanding faculty members and students from each college. The honorees are invited to spend the day at the state Capitol. There, they are presented to the Senate and the House of Representatives and they are also given a luncheon in their honor.

This year's representatives from Holmes Community College are Linda Bunch and Stephanie Lynch. Recipients of this honor are chosen by a committee which is appointed by Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr., president of Holmes Community College. Teachers are then chosen on the basis of outstanding merit. The student is selected according to his or her grade point average and the difficulty of the courses he or she is taking.

Goodman Campus English instructor Linda Bunch holds a bachelor's degree and a master's degree from Mississippi College. She has also completed additional study at Delta State University, Mississippi State University and the University of Mississippi.

Linda Bunch

Stephanie Lynch

BUILDING FUN

Into Every Moment

Homecoming week, culminating with Saturday's football game, is one that students manage to pack with memorable moments.

A football was hidden with clues to its location provided daily. Matt Newton managed to put clue and clue together and located the football in psych instructor Kim Stoker's desk.

A torrential downpour rained out the Mardi Gras-style parade and the bonfire pep rally scheduled for Thursday, but failed to dampen the spirits of Bulldog fans. The pep rally was moved indoors to the coliseum and everyone got fired up for Saturday's game.

The clubs that are at Holmes Community College today have not changed much from yesterday. There are clubs that started in 1925 that are still active. The clubs have the same functions and purposes. The clubs that started in 1967 include Baptist Student Union, Young Women's Auxiliary, Wesley Foundation, Newman Club, Dramatics Club, Debate Club, Home Economics Club, Industrial Education Club, and Student Council.

The purpose of the Baptist Student Union, which still exists today, is to aid in the spiritual realm of student life. The goal is to strive to make the world a better place which to live and serve Jesus Christ.

The Wesley Foundation was supported by the United Methodist Church. It was set up to help college students with their problems and needs. It also aids them in understanding themselves in the light of Christian faith.

The Debate Club gave an opportunity for a new knowledge of vital issues concerning politics and government. The debate team represented the college in debate competition with other junior colleges in the state.

In 1968, Phi Beta Lambda was chartered. It was set up for students interested in fields of business. It too still exists today. It meets once a month to discuss projects and learn more about today's business.

In 1970, Women's Council, Phi Theta Kappa, Engineering Club, Reflections Staff, and Cosmetology Club was started.

The Engineering Club enriched the experience of engineering students through the use of guest speakers, movies, and field trips.

In 1971, YMCA, YWCA, Collegiate Civitan Club, and Christian Council on Campus were formed. The function of both the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association was to bring the students on campus closer together in their Christian faith. The Collegiate Civitan Club was organized on the Holmes campus in December 1970. The aim was to build good citizenship, promote good fellowship and high scholarship to serve on campus and in the community, and to provide opportunities for leadership through service.

In 1973, the Chess Club, Holme Towne Players, and Vocational Industrial Clubs of America began holding meetings.

In 1974, the Rifle Corp, the Flag Corp and Color Guard were added to the band.

ROTC was organized in 1975.

In 1978, the Church of God in Christ was started. It tried to stimulate more spiritual interest in the lives of the students in respect of Christianity through Bible study and religious activities.

In 1982, Preschool Association for Students, Teachers, and Educators, P.A.S.T.E., was formed. Delta Psi Omega was organized in 1983, VICA in 1985, Creative Writing Club in 1986, and Math and Combined Sciences Club in 1988. Clubs that exist today on the Goodman Campus include Student Council, Cosmetology, Delta Psi Omega, The Holmes Connection, Holme Towne Players, Math and Combined Sciences, Industrial Education, Phi Beta Lambda, Phi Theta Kappa, and Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA).

These clubs still serve the students in the same ways they did when they first began. They are larger and better equipped to deal with problems students face today. The faculty as well as students see the need for clubs on campus.

Danny Williams, the dean of students, is a man who has high hopes for the students at Holmes Community College. He thinks clubs provide real experiences, enrichment, and gives them opportunities.

"Honor societies allow students to maintain grades and provide scholarships to help with transferring students to senior colleges," said Williams.

He thinks the religious clubs bring students together and help them realize that there are students on campus that think alike.

"Clubs are great," said Williams, "They enhance the life of a college student."

He would like the students on campus to make themselves aware of the clubs and activities that are set up for them.

Top. Color guard member Amanda Williams, stays in step while the band performs during half-time.

Clubs give to community through service

by
Laura Heller

Right. Goodman Campus English instructor Steve Deaton and Student Support Services counselor James Brooks perform for the Baptist Student Union's Fine Arts night. Below. Monica Henley and Tracy Fleming enjoy good conversation at the Sidewalk Cafe.

Community service in clubs at Holmes Community College is a major part of each member's participation. Just knowing that you are helping another person gives you a good feeling in your heart and soul. Being a member of Phi Theta Kappa; Assisting, Counseling, Education for Students; Phi Beta Lambda; Baptist Student Union; Industrial Education and Student Government Association has given students a chance to be in the position to help other people. It is that personal satisfaction that makes students keep these clubs a tradition.

Members of the international honor society for community and junior colleges, or Phi Theta Kappa, have been involved extensively in community services. Sidewalk Cafe made its appearance during homecoming week, in which desserts were sold by club members and faculty members. The Holmes Jazz Band provided musical entertainment, plus Steve Deaton sang a few songs while playing his guitar.

"The personal satisfaction and intrinsic value in doing community service," replied Deaton when asked about what rewards did PTK gain from community service. The proceeds from Sidewalk Cafe were donated to St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Phi Theta Kappa also aided SGA in the Voter Registration Drive in November. Since this year was a big election year, an individual's vote was all the more important. In the Spring, PTK presented to the student body a blood drive, stressing the importance of how giving blood can save a person's life. Ray Rutledge, chemistry instructor and PTK adviser, noted, "The students became aware of the needs of the community and wanted to help."

To meet the International Service Topic, Mental Health, Youth, and Focus, PTK gave a Depression check test and a Stress workshop to the students of Holmes in Goodman. Some PTK members have also visited with some of the patients in the nursing home in Durant. They spend time with the patients, give them gifts, and read to them. For a local family with a child that has an incurable disease, PTK donated some money to help with the medical costs.

"We became involved to make the community more aware of the issues around them and to become a part of them," said PTK president Chris Byrd.

The Baptist Student Union at Holmes was also involved in many community service projects. BSU visited many churches often, presenting the SCREAM team, Students Care, Reach, Evangelize, Administer Ministry. Around exam time, BSU had available to students exam care packages. These helped the students study for those really tough exams. Best of all, BSU worked to meet its goal of $5,000 for Summer Missions.

"BSU has become involved because we believe it is our duty to share Christ's love and encourage a Godly fellowship. Students mature in Godly service and leadership," said BSU's adviser Michael Kelly about the club's involvement.

The Student Government Association became more community minded this year. SGA assisted the Girl Scouts in Holmes County to encourage young girls to not be scared of math and science.

"They came to us to help them with the project. It's aimed towards the elementary schools in the district," stated Keisha Hogsett. "Being a part of the SGA gives me a chance to give back to the college."

The project took place at the Goodman/Pickens Elementary School. Raising money for the Arthritis Foundation in the spring has always been a Holmes tradition. Holmes was first challenged by Holmes Community College, and accepted the challenge.

SGA also distributed a survey about the cafeteria food and played a major part in the formation of SADD, Students Against Destructive Decisions.

SADD focuses on students' decisions about drinking and driving, drugs, suicide, and other destructive decisions. SGA helped PTK a great deal in Voter Registration for faculty and students.

"Voter responsibility is very important," stated adviser Linda Alexander. "Raising money makes you feel good to be a part of it, just to feel like we're putting something into the community."

ACES, Assisting, Counseling, Education for Students, was a community oriented organization.

The club does volunteer work in the community. ACES adopted a reading class at a local school.

"We are working with a teacher at William Sullivan Elementary School in Durant. We read to the students," said Fedder Williams, adviser of ACES.

"A lot of the members of ACES are elementary education majors and to appreciate teachers, they can serve as unofficial mentors for the kids." There is a possibility that ACES may adopt a daycare center, and maybe adopt one or two elderly people in the community and spend time with them. "ACES gives us the opportunity to be in the position to help people. It helps me with my leadership skills also," said president Keisha Hogsett.

Phi Beta Lambda, a business club on the Goodman Campus of Holmes, worked in conjunction with charitable organizations. The club gave contributions to the Leukemia Society and collected Christmas gifts for the Mississippi State Hospital. PBL was very supportive of school activities and events.

"Being a perspective business leader requires you to be alert to the needs of the community," stated Lynda Irby, one of PBL's advisers.

IED, the Industrial Education Department, participated in several community services. They aided in the set up of the Sidewalk Cafe with Phi Theta Kappa. With VICA, they help with the Blood Drive that students have welcomed on the campus. IED also cleans up a section of the highway in conjunction with the Adopt a Highway Program.

Adviser Terry Cox states, "Most of these graduates will be business and industry leaders and they need to understand that they need to be involved in these community services."

The IED club goes on field trips, visits university departments and has speakers at club meetings to give students a better understanding of the industry.

Vice-President Adam Eldridge says that being in community minded club "builds character and leadership qualities. It is a well-rounded education that prepares you for different areas in the industry."

The Baptist Student Union is under the leadership of Michael Kelly this year. His name is Micheal Kelly, a Holmes Community College graduate. After Holmes, he continued his education at Mississippi State University, majoring in Political Science. The 24-year-old BSU director is married and has no children. A native of Brandon, he now lives in Durant. He plans to increase the size of the BSU in student involvement, while enhancing the BSU center.

The Summer Mission is a volunteer program that offers college students an opportunity to work alongside a career home or foreign missionary for eight to 10 week periods.

The Goodman Campus BSU chapter has two major events: BSU Exam Break for Christmas and Summer Mission Program. Their weekly events are: T.N.T or Tuesday Night Together, a contemporary worship time based to fill the needs of the college students; Sophomore Bible Study, Out of Moral Maze; Freshman Family Group, a chance for freshman to get together and have a small group Bible study time; Dorm Devotions in every dorm and Hi Noon which will be an outreach ministry to commuting students.

The Holmes BSU believes in students having opportunities to minister in the local community. They are preparing to begin a nursing home ministry, a local youth bible study here in Goodman, and sending our SCREAM Teams to local churches. S.C.R.E.A.M. stands for Student Care, Reach Evangelize, and Minister. Students participating lead worship service in drama music and testimonies. They plan repaint the inside and outside of the BSU house and also plant shrubs.

"BSU meant a lot to me as a student, and BSU is going to continue to mean a lot to students in the years to come," said Michael Kelly.

Holmes also has a new band; it was started last March with just a few pieces. The Steel Drum Band was organized and is directed by Clay Whittington. There are eight members of the Steel Drum Band. It consists of steel drums, a drum set, and percussion. They have performed in the Beauty Review, Mississippi Private School Band Festival, Mississippi Band Master Association, on Holmes Community College Campus, and area high schools. The band plays music such as, Latin, Calypso, Soca, Pop, and some Christmas music.

"It is a very unique group and I thought that the students would enjoy being a part of it," said Clay Whittington.

The Holmes Ambassadors are another relatively new group on campus. Anthony Goods of Tallulah, La., who serves as vice-president of the group, is a mass communications and journalism major. The Ambassadors are in charge of student activities, give help to seniors, visit high schools, and participate in certain events outside and inside of school. The biggest change that has taken place among the members of the group is that they have grown as individuals.

"This is something I've worked for since I've been here at Holmes Community College. Maintaining a 3.4 grade point average as an Ambassador / vicepresident has been great. It's just a goal I've accomplished, but I have many more goals I want to accomplish," said Anthony J. Goods, a member of the Holmes Ambassadors.

The Student Government Association has a lot of activities like the Back-to-School dance, the Coffeehouse, talent show and the scavenger hunt. The most popular activity that the SGA sponsors is the dance. There has been better turnout for the activities; students voice their opinions more often.

"I feel very honored to have been chosen to serve and represent Holmes as president of its student body. Holmes has a reputation of academic excellence, and it has been said time and time again that before you leave Holmes, you will receive an excellent education. Through working extensively within the organization of which I am a part, I feel I have been given opportunities to develop not only leadership skills, but to also grow as a person mentally and physically. I owe a great deal of this to the opportunities that I have been fortunate to participate in while I have been here at Holmes," said Keisha Hogsett, president of SGA.

There are 20,000 Vocational Class of America clubs in the United States. VICA's primary activity is the VICA State Skills Olympics. VICA picks out the best students from the vocational classes to be in the Skills Olympics. VICA also sponsors a blood drive. The club activities have changed for the last few years; they have better participation. VICA has been around almost 25 years. The most popular activities in which the club participates is the Skills Olympics Contest. The purpose behind a activity is to give the students a chance to compete against other students.

"It's a pleasure to work with the students to find out what they can do. They sometimes surprise themselves," said W.A.Miles, VICA adviser.

The Math And Combined Sciences Club has been at Holmes Community College for 10 years. MACS raises funds for St. Jude and other charities. The club activities have changed over the years because club life is not as popular as it used to be. It has made a lot of changes over the past years. The purpose behind the activities is for the students to get together.

"MACS is here to serve the Math and Science Department," said David Rule, MACS adviser.

The Creative Arts Club has a lot of activities. They sponsor the coffeehouse with the SGA. The coffeehouse is where students read their own poems, perform and drink coffee. They also sponsor the creative writing contest and attend the Mississippi Community College Creative Writing competition in the spring. The club activities have not changed because the club has only been around for about a year. The most popular activity the CAC have is the coffeehouse.

"We hold the coffeehouse to give students to express their ideas," said Steve Deaton, CAC adviser.

The most popular activity Phi Theta Kappa holds is Sidewalk Cafe. All Phi Theta Kappa members participate in a lot of activities on campus. They are competing in the Five Stars Awards Program this year and are planning to achieve Five Stars. The purpose for the activity is to promote Phi Theta Kappa's four hallmarks, including scholarship, leadership, service and fellowship.

"Working with Phi Theta Kappa has been one of the most rewarding experiences of my life and it has indeed been a pleasure to work with the students and advisers at Holmes and throughout the country," said Juila Williams, PTK adviser.

Bulldogs cap off season with 6-4 record

The 1995-96 football season at Holmes Community College proved to be an inspiring and encouraging time for both players and coaches. The Bulldogs had a total of six wins and four losses. Several coaches and team players offered some of their insight and opinions of the past season.

Sophomore Chris Avery of Grenada said,

"The team has a lot of potential and a good coaching staff," when asked about what he likes about being on the football team.

"It's very exciting," he adds. "It was a good season and I liked it very much."

Coach Andy Wood stated that from "high school to college, the teams are bigger and stronger. There is more unity." Commenting on the season, he said, "No one expected us to be as good as we were. We had 55 players, 18 of which were sophomores. Ten players were from out of state. There is a better look out for next year, because more sophomores will be returning."

"I was pleased with the outcome of our team. Not as many sophomores returned this year, but the whole team worked hard to strive for their best."

Cleadis Russell, a freshman from Brownsville, Tenn., remembers the East Mississippi game as the most exciting game he played this season. He said he likes being on the team because he gets to be with the fellows and "just loves to play football." What makes Cleadis most interesting is the fact he comes from outcome of our team. Not as many sophomores returned this year, but the whole team worked hard to strive for their best."

Coach Shurden was pleased that the team had won so many of the games. "Many people were surprised by how many we did win."

A freshman from Grenada, Kenyatta Williamson said he likes "the level of talent" that the football team possesses. He feels that college football is better than high school football because it is just played better. Another freshman, Bruno Clark from Madison, said that winning is the part best about football.

Coaches Jeff Koonz and Tony Cook agree on the most exciting game of the year. "By far, the game with East Mississippi. We were down by 28 points at the end of the first half of the game. But in the last quarter with nine seconds left we won the game 42 to 40," said Cook.

The two coaches also agree about what hurt the team this season. "We played a lot of games with some turnovers during the season, which did hurt us. We also had eight freshmen on defense and seven freshman on offense, so it was also inexperience," noted Koonz.

Coach Jeff Koonz also told us about a new tradition that the team started this year. "We had some things we tried. We tend to believe the beautiful pond behind the dorm has something magical in the water. Maybe the sweat from the football players runs off into the pond. We'd salute the pond every morning we had a game. And on away games we sprinkled some of the water on the field for good luck."

The team was well supported during the football season by many loyal Holmes students and fans.

The team proved to be a great success and next year's team will definitely have to live up to the 1995 team's reputation.

Smith attains 1,000 yard season

Men's basketball team uses teamwork to win

On Nov. 1, the Holmes Community College Bulldogs kicked off their season with a 10-point loss to Jones' Bobcats. The final score was Jones, 103, Holmes, 93, with Freddie Landers, 25 points; Russell Evans, 21; and Shawn Stewart, 6. However, that loss did not stop the Bulldogs. They came back and won the next six games against Mary Holmes, Hinds, Co-Lin, Southwest, and the Gulf Coast with Timmy Sanders, Evans, Landers, and Reggie Herman. The Bulldogs experienced a disappointing loss against Pearl River with a score of 90-84, but again this inspired the Bulldogs to play even harder. They brought home three more victories against East Mississippi, Mississippi Delta, and Northwest with Reggie Herman, Timmy Sanders, and Russell Evans as leading scorers. The Bulldogs continued on a winning track, losing only 4 games after the Christmas hiatus.

Although the season started a little slowly, Holmes

Community College's head men's basketball coach Bennie Kimble never gave up on his team.

In his 26th coaching season, Kimble knows quite a bit about success. There have been many changes over the years in the way the game is played, said Kimble. Kimble said it has changed from a slow-paced, pattern-played, run-of-the-dock shot, to a full-court game with very little half-court offensive play.

The Holmes Bulldog's team of 1995-96 has a total of thirteen members. They are Jermaine Allen, a 6'1" freshman guard from Jennings, LA; Hiseion Berry, a 6'5" sophomore guard from Flora; Nakil Culp, a 6'0" freshman guard from Durant; Derek Dory, a 5'8" freshman point guard from Vaughan; Russell Evans, a 6'3" sophomore guard from Canton; Clifton Goodloe, a 6'7" sophomore forward from Canton; Reggie Herman, a 6'5" sophomore forward from Memphis; Royce Kimble, a 6'4" sophomore

Each member has contributed to the team in his own way. Russell Evans was the team's leading scorer and rebounder last year. He was named to the All-State team and the All-Region XXII team and received the designation as Holmes' Most Valuable Player.

His main concern as a team leader is to get the team motivated to play. Playing with the motto, "Practice hard, play hard, be committed to the sport, and put God first and everything will be wonderful," he is also concerned about doing well in the game and making his first shot.

Timmy Sanders was the team's best

7. Because you want to get away from that "nerd-boy" that keeps following you.
8. To support the team and watch them win.
9. Good excuse not to work on homework.
10. To receive extra points for class.

Cheerleaders provide spirit at athletic event

The Holmes Community College cheerleaders, under the direction of their sponsor, Audra Love Kimble, greatly add to the campus spirit. Not only do they cheer for the games, they also cheer at pep rallies to get the teams and students pumped up before the games.

They also paint signs and place them around campus to show support for the team.

They begin preparing in the summer, with practices held on Saturday mornings. They also attend a cheerleader camp for a week on a university campus.

Assistant coach Dupont joins Morgan, Diamond Dogs

"You have got to earn respect from other teams! If it is going to be, it's up to us!" states a sign upon the wall of Holmes' new assistant baseball coach, Kenny Dupont.

This is apparently the new motto for the Diamond Dogs this year. Both head coach Quinby Morgan and Dupont believe this will be one of the Bulldogs' best seasons yet.

Although last year's season was not record-breaking, this fall semester has shown that bigger and better things are to come. Morgan credits the improvement in the outlook of the team to the returning sophomores who have shown a great deal of leadership.

These sophomores evidently have a goal to strive for, whether it's a state championship like Goodman sophomore Aaron Morgan dreams of, or just playing for the love of baseball like freshman Robert Col- lum from Eupora.

Dupont said that if the team can strive to outperform their competition and have just a little bit of luck, these dreams of having a winning spring season just may come true.

When asked about the differences between the baseball program when it first began and how it is presently, Morgan speaks mainly of the new facilities and equipment that have been added to the program. Building a new field and adding a new pitching machine, better uniforms, and a few new tarps to cover the mounds and home plate have made recruiting easier for the coaches.

The new facilities are not the only thing that has improved over the years, though. Both Morgan and Dupont believe in the baseball team acting as one unit. Morgan says he has seen a definite improvement in the cooperation and experience of members of the Diamond Dogs.

The one thing that has stayed the same throughout the years of baseball at Holmes is the love of the game. The players must love the game of baseball, otherwise, they would never make it through the hard practices every day. Diamond Dogs are expected to practice anywhere from three to three and a half hours a day. This time does not include the weight lifting they participate in for about forty-five minutes every other day. Dedication is definitely needed to play on this team and that is something that will never change.

Freshmen and sophomores have come from different places all over Mississippi and Louisiana, but they find their common goal here at Holmes on the playing field. When different players were asked what they enjoyed about playing baseball here at Holmes the answers were as varied as the players.

Freshman Neil Fortenberry from Madison likes the fact that the competition is on a higher level now.

Aaron Morgan says this experience will help further his baseball career when he later attends a Division I school.

One thing he likes about this year's baseball program is the addition of the assistant coach, Kenny

The players have adjusted well to the changes in the program, even if Coach Dupont does make the pitchers and catchers wear dress shirts and ties every Thursday.

Dupont says he is adjusting quite nicely to life on the Goodman Campus. He likes the quiet and friendly atmosphere here.

Tennis teams tackle another season on the courts

This year's tennis teams are looking forward to a new and exciting year. This is the secstood on the baseline and simply rallied back and forth. That is not the case these days. The all-court players like Steffi Graf and Andre' Agassi are the kind of players people are modeling themselves after."

Kimble said, "We had a young inexperienced team last year. Only two had played previously on a high school team. Therefore, the lack of experience was our weakest point. This really hurt our mental game, but they made up for it by hustling. They gave 110 percent every time they hit the court."

Holmes Community College men's tennis instructor Robert Harris said, "Try-outs are held in the fall and the top six players are chosen in February for the team. All the men on last year's team had played before. It was a good year. I hated to lose my group of sophomores. Brad Tinnon went from the number five spot to the number one spot last year."

Both the men and women's team played to the best of their ability last year. This year there are more inexperienced players on the men's team. All the members on the women's team have had some kind of experience, whether it be for recreation or for sport. This will help the women's team incredibly.

The men will be competing in 15 matches and the women will be competing in 13 matches.

Team member Suzanne Douglas said, "We have a lot of fun on the way to the matches."

The state competition will be held in mid-April. The members have scheduled practices twice a week and practice on their own as often as they wish for the matches that begin in early March. Both teams stress a winning attitude as they begin the season.

Team member Susanne Sykes said, "I enjoy meeting new people from other schools." Sykes and Douglas are the only two returning players for the ond year scholarships have been awarded to players. Scholarships are rewarded according to their performance.

The only requirements to play on the tennis team is to be interested. Preliminary try-outs are held in the fall, with final selections held in January or February.

Holmes Community College women's tennis team instructor Audra Love Kimble said, "Some would say the sport of tennis hasn't changed much, and in some ways it hasn't. But it has definitely become much more aggressive. You see people with killer serves and unbelievable net games. In the past everyone basically

New team member Angel Albin said, "I enjoy being with all the nice people."

Kimble and Harris both have high hopes for the teams. The courts are being resurfaced. This should affect the performance of the players for the better.

Edwards leads Holmes softball for second season

Anyone who follows college athletics knows that there are good years and bad years, winning seasons and losing seasons, victories and disappointments. And any sports fan phenomenal for any school's first effort at a sport. The Lady Bulldogs also finished third in the north and qualified for the state play-offs. Many would consider this an accomplishment in any year, but even more remarkable in the first year.

"I was disappointed we didn't win more games. I was pleased with the effort the girls put out. We had some injuries that hurt us late in the season. We played most of the year with just 11 athletes which is a credit to the girls on the team," stated Edwards.

With the personnel in place from last year's group and the players that have signed to join the squad this season, the Lady Bulldogs are hoping to improve on an already good record.

"I hope this year we do much better. I still haven't found the power hitter I need. We'll have a lot of speed and we've covered a lot of the outfield weaknesses we had last year. We have a much stronger bench with some players who are very capable of coming in. Last year we had some very inexperienced players who gained experience," said Edwards.

The community college league plays slow-pitch softball, but a lot of the team members have backgrounds in both fast-pitch and slow-pitch. With slow pitch, the players are expected to get a hit every time, so the defense has to be solid all over the field.

"With slow-pitch softball, you cannot afford a defensive weakness anywhere," stated Edwards.

And when Edwards, who is a seasoned coach with experience coaching football, track, basketball, and both men's and women's fast-pitch softball, recruits, he looks for attitude and academic ability along with athletic prowess.

"I have found that if a girl is strong academically, she is able to learn what you're trying to teach her on the field. If she is disciplined enough to sit down and study, she'll do okay in the sport," said Edwards.

Edwards, a retired naval officer who will also serve as an American history and political science instructor for Holmes, has put together a group of women who are as capable in knows that when a school fields a team in any particular sport for the first time, expectations can't be too high.

The program must be built from scratch. None of the players have ever competed in this league before. There is no tried and true; everything is new.

Most coaches would be satisfied just making it through the season. And the most to be hoped for would be to have a handful of games in the win column. But not Holmes' women's softball coach Dan Edwards.

He was not content to simply get by. And this determination helped inspire the team to their 20-23 record, which is the classroom as on the field. And he hopes this combination of mental ability and physical skill will take the Lady Bulldogs softball team to even greater achievements in their second season.

"I certainly want to do better than last year. My goal for this year, as in any year, is to win the state championship," concluded Edwards.

Holmes back on track with track, cross country

Holmes has a rich history of track and field but has not put together a team in several years. That haitas ended when Holmes president Starkey A. Morgan Sr. annouced at the beginning of this school year that Holmes would have track and field and cross country teams. Track is coached by Alex Tsema, who is a talented track and field competitor. He excelled mainly in the decathalon.

Cross country is coached by Elton Wright, a former runner at Holmes who brings years of experience to Holmes. As a student at Holmes, Wright ran the mile relay with his twin brother, Alton, Roger Bynum and Johnny Vaughan. They set the two-year college record for the mile relay in 1963. He later became cross country coach at Forrest Hill High School in 1966. He is currently a southeatern conference offical and a USA Track and Field official.

At the beginning of the year Holmes carried that underdog label, but it did not last for long. Holmes competed in meets at various colleges and universites across the state. Holmes went into the regional and won it.

Holmes was led by Tim Henson, who said, "I liked cross country and can not wait to be a part of it next year."

After winning the regionals, Holmes got a berth to the nationals that were held at Alfred State in New York. This team placed 13th in the nation among community colleges.

Wright is looking forward to recruiting quality players to go with his already stellar group of runners. The recruiting trail will have plenty of hills for Coach Wright because it will be hard to sign players without any scholarships. Wright has four runners returning to next year's team.

Track coach Alex Tsema brings a lot of determination and know-how to his team. A graduate of the Moscow University of Physical Education in Moscow, Russia, Alex also serves as the intramural director and a dorm supervisor at Holmes. He also coached track at the Moscow university he attended.

Alex's wife Luba, who coaches the women's team, is an exceptional athlete. She is currently training for the 1996 Olympics which will be held in Atlanta, Ga. Luba currently holds the women's record for the 600 meters and is a six-time champion in the 800 meters in the Soviet Union. She holds a degree from the Institute of Physical Culture in Moscow.

Alex hopes his team will finish strongly in all the events, but is especially optimistic about the long jump and the 4/100 relay.

Track and field was for many years an important part of Holmes sports. And soon people will notice the Bulldogs on the track and cross country circuits as the tradition continues.

Sheppard swings into action as golf team coach

When most people think of college sports, they think of football in the fall and basketball in the winter. But in the spring, sports remain a highlight of Holmes Community College activities. Baseball, softball, tennis and golf all pick up where football and basketball leave off.

And once again, Gary Sheppard will pick up his club as coach of the Holmes golf team. The squad is comprised of eight members, with five being scholarship players.

Two sophomores, Jeff McDonald of Winona, and Marshall Whittemore of Grenada, return to the squad.

Four newcomers are expected to take to the greens along with them. Jeremy Threadgill of Ackerman, Kent McCloud, also of Ackerman, Lance Davis of Benton, and Chris Cochran of Kosciusko round out the group of golfers.

"Our goal is to be very competitive. These are high caliber players. We'll do a lot of practice rounds to lower our scores and compete in community college golf," noted Sheppard.

The 1995 team played in six tournaments statewide, including the State/Region XXIII Tournament held each year at Millbrook Country Club in Picayune. Five members from each team are allowed to play in each tournament, with the four best scores counting toward the team score. Other tournament sites include River Birch Country Club in Amory, Lakeside Course at Mississippi State, Laurel Country Club in Laurel, Plantation Country Club in Olive Branch and Eagle Ridge Golf Course at Hinds Community College in Raymond.

The team prepares for the tournaments by holding practice rounds at various courses in the area, including Kosciusko Country Club, Benton Country Club, Holmes County Country Club in Lexington, Winona Country Club, Canton Country Club and LeFleurs Bluff Course in Jackson.

Now in his second year as golf coach, Sheppard hopes to attain some new equipment to aid the team with practice.

"We're hoping to put in a driving range on the back side of the lake. It would be a great asset. We want players to hit several buckets of balls each week and practice putting daily," said Sheppard.

The season begins the first week of March and ends the third week in April, which works out to be basically one tournament a week for six weeks. And the team has more to aim for than just victory on the courses of Mississippi. The top golf team in the state goes to the national juco tournament, which is played each June in Greensboro, N.C. Players named All-Americans are also eligible to play in the national tournament as individuals.

"I have been in college for about 3 years. I attended Delta State after graduating high school in 1992. From the beginning family has played a major role in my education. What changes have noticed around campus this year?

"There has been a tremendous increase in the amount of students attending HCC since I arrived in the fall of 94. This increase has made for a more diversified student body. Also, the students of the Grenada Center have become more involved in the campus activities. This has in turn created more School Pride."

What teacher has most changed your views about life?

"My psychology teacher, Dr. Dixon has changed my views about life. For example, I've had many opinions about college teachers and she's not an ordinary teacher — she's down to earth and doesn't have an ego like other teachers who have high degrees."

Holmes maintains tradition of excellence, compassion through 70 years of change

By Keisha Hogsett

Warmth, compassion and a sense of being noticed as an individual and not a number are the feelings that you get being a student here at Holmes. Holmes is small enough for us to get and establish a close relationship with the faculty and large enough for you to get a quality education. I feel very fortunate to be able to be a part of such a wonderful school.

Yes, it's true that Holmes has excellent academic programs and the college does emphasize academic excellence, but the school also stresses the importance of having a close relationship with other students and the instructors. Holmes allows you the opportunity to do things that you normally couldn't do at other schools.

Only at Holmes can you have the opportunity to be invited to dinner cooked and served by your instructor. Only at Holmes will you see the "Coffee Club" consisting of faculty and staff sitting down during breakfast discussing current world events and family situations over a cup of coffee and then take some time out to chat with students about their daily schedules. Only at Holmes can you get the chance to participate in many school activities, with the advisers not only becoming your sponsors, but also "foster parents" giving advice and encouragement during those times when we need it the most.

Holmes is the epitome of what a community college should be, a school that goes out of its way to encourage its students to do the best to their ability. Holmes gives us the opportunity to develop leadership skills and shows us that our opinions about situations really do matter. You feel as if you are in a tight-knit family.

I have seen several students come back to visit their teachers and faculty members and you can see the relationship they have established here was close-knit. Many students came here because of tradition. Their mothers and fathers came here and they too have found the warmth that is here. I am proud to say that I am a student at Holmes. If you ask me, this is the best community college in the state, not just because of the programs that are offered, but also because of the friendly atmosphere that is present.

Editor's Note: Sophomore Keisha Hogsett, though not a member of the yearbook staff, is a very active student on the Goodman Campus. In addition to being president of the Student Government Association and ACES, she is also a member BSU, the Growl staff, the Creative Arts Club and the Leadership class. She is also the founder and president of Students Against Destructive Decisions (S.A.D.D.).

Letter from the Staff

The 1995-1996 Horizons is now complete and it's been a very special part of our lives. Putting this book together was a challenge and the reward is a book of memories everyone will cherish in their heart.

There are memories of the first day of classes, drama, Homecoming, Coffeehouse, Sidewalk Cafe, and much, much more. We hope that when each of you looks at this yearbook 70 years from now, you will be reminded of your experiences at HCC.

We want to express our gratitude to each member of the faculty and administration. Thank you all for the personal attention you provided to each student.

Mrs. Blanton, we want to say a very special word of thanks to you. Without you, this yearbook would not have been possible. Your experience and knowledge are without compare.

Many thanks to Mr. Williams for all the photographs you've taken and all the help you've given us.

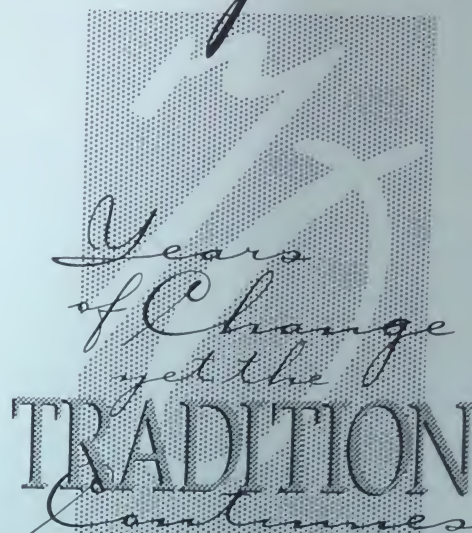

Thanks to all the HCC students for cooperating with the spontaneous needs of the yearbook staff.

To everyone, good luck in the future.

Colophon

Holmes Community College's 1996 Horizons, Volume 67, consists of 240 pages on a 9 X 12 format. The book contains 80# paper and a Smyth binding. There are 24 color pages.

The 1,400 copies of the book were printed at Taylor Publishing Co., Inc., in Dallas, Texas. The sales representative was Ben Allen. The in-plant representative was Janey Garrison.

The cover is four-color lithocote with an ultra 1 silver foil stamp. The endsheet is pumice with green #23. The cover and endsheets were designed by Caron Blanton and graphic artist April Enos.

All pages were composed on a Power Macintosh 6100/66 using PageMaker 6.0. Aldus Freehand 4.0 was used for the cover, endsheet and division page designs. WordPerfect 3.0 was used for writing and editing copy for the publication. Pages were submitted to the plant on a Syquest disk for output directly to a negative.

Fonts used include Humanist Bold for headlines and subheads; Arrus Roman for body copy; Arrus Bold Italic and Carlotta for captions; and Carpens for pull quotes.

Portrait photographs were taken by Mississippi School Pictures, Inc., Jackson, Miss.

The viewpoints represented in this yearbook are solely of the staff and in no way intend to reflect college policy.
